Grade 7 students will explore their own values through an interactive drama. They will begin to understand how these values influence choices, and that all choices have consequences. We will explore qualities that contribute to healthy and unhealthy friendships, and discuss how these qualities may apply to future dating relationships. We explore boundary setting, and discuss abstinence as a healthy and safe option. Students will practice communication skills and will learn how to use them in various pressure situations.

Grade 8 students will create their own personal Life Line where they will explore their future goals and create a timeline for significant events. We will use that as a tool to discuss the realities of an unplanned pregnancy. We will explore myths and facts relating to relationships and sexuality, helping them to understand the significance of informed decision making. THRIVE re-affirms abstinence as a healthy choice as we discuss the implications of sexual involvement in all areas of life – physical, emotional, and relational, as well as how it relates to personal values.

Grade 9 students will discuss the significance of sexual and relational decisions. Students will explore many of the facets related to healthy relationships, including warning signs of an unhealthy relationship. Boundary setting and understanding consent will be introduced. Communication strategies will be taught that will encourage and equip students to be assertive, especially in pressure situations. Students will identify the effectiveness and failure rates of contraception with an emphasis on personal responsibility as well as the realities of teen pregnancy. Abstinence will be introduced as a healthy choice.

Grade 10 students will have a meaningful conversation about individual worth, boundaries, and sexual decision-making. We discuss the physical, social, emotional and relational effects of sex and challenge students to set personal standards. We discuss consent, and expand the conversation by exploring the myths and realities of sexual assault. Students will be given specific scenarios in which they will work together to problem solve and de-bunk myths related to issues that teens face, including sexting, STI's, and the realities of teen pregnancy. Abstinence is introduced and affirmed as a healthy choice.
